Since 1979, Yale law students have been traveling to the Green Haven Correctional Facility in Stormville, New York to participate in a program run by incarcerated men. That program, called the Project for a Calculated Transition, or PACT, has influenced countless individuals inside and outside prison over the decades.

We are thrilled to share footage for an in-progress documentary spotlighting the PACT program as we fundraise to complete the film. After sharing footage from the project, a panel of individuals featured in the film will share their reflections. Our panelists include:

Roy Bolus

Former President of PACT

JoAnne Page

President & CEO,
The Fortune
Society

Jose Saldaña

Director, Release
